

JJK REBOOT 1

1. TIMELINE

🕒 PROLOGUE: FIVE YEARS AFTER THE CULLING GAMES

The jujutsu world has fractured. The Association, now more authoritarian than ever, labels all unregistered sorcerers as threats to national order.

Nova Seba—a cursed-tech hybrid gone rogue—uncovers a forgotten sanctuary called Tenrin Hollow while evading extermination squads. There, she syncs with a buried Star Plasma shard, triggering a Kernel Core overload and unlocking the ability to convert memory into cursed broadcast signals.

Gojo Satoru, fragmented across dimensions from his sealing, emerges intermittently through warps in cursed space. Suguru Geto, long believed dead, resurfaces after faking his demise and begins dismantling the system he once rebelled against.

Together, they form CurseTV—a revolutionary broadcast platform that weaponizes truth. EchoBot, their unpredictable AI mascot, transforms their doctrine into viral protest. The Association brands Nova a Class-A threat.

With Megumi Fushiguro as a double agent and Shoko Ieiri decrypting forbidden Ghostcode, the mobile rebellion navigates Echo Zones to destabilize the Association and prevent a second collapse of cursed civilization.

I. TIMELINE OF EVENTS

◆ Pre-Broadcast Discoveries (Tenrin Hollow Arc)

* Discovery of Tenrin Hollow: Nova Seba, while evading Association trace signals, uncovers an abandoned sanctuary known as Tenrin Hollow—a resonance chamber once used to protect Star Plasma Vessel echoes.

* Resonant Sync with Star Plasma Fragment: Within the Hollow, Nova unintentionally syncs with a buried shard of a Star Plasma Vessel. This causes a deep memory surge and temporarily destabilizes her cursed-tech interface.

* Allied Contact with Gojo & Geto: During the sync tremor, she is found and aided by Gojo and Geto. They confirm the shard's legitimacy and agree to shelter Nova, despite being targeted by Association scanners.

◆ Star Plasma Shard Sync Incident

* Nova registers as "NA-03": Association systems flag her as a rogue experiment—a fusion of Cursed Energy and cursed-tech signal residue. She is now considered a Class-A threat.

* First Echo Overload: The synced shard activates dormant memory fields, resulting in Nova's first uncontrolled Echo Surge. This causes a temporary blackout of Echo Zones 5–11 and overloads the cursed comm grid.

* Designation of Kernel Core: Nova's body is revealed to contain a hybrid node called a Kernel Core. This acts as both a cursed-tech reactor and a living antenna for Echo-bound memories.

◆ CurseTV Launch & Broadcast

* Formation of Signal Rebellion: Nova, in hiding, co-develops CurseTV with EchoBot. The platform is both stream and insurgency—a broadcast that weaponizes truth against the Association.

* First Livestream: The Doctrine Drop: Suguru Geto agrees to go live on CurseTV in a controlled environment. His anti-Association ideology becomes viral under #GetoDoctrine and #JoinOrBeExorcised.

* EchoBot Becomes Sentient Mascot: During launch stress testing, EchoBot's processing subroutine evolves, giving him a chaotic-good personality and creating CurseTV's fan cult persona.

◆ Association Countermeasures

* Class-A Threat Notice Issued: Nova is marked as NA-03. Lethal force is authorized. Megumi receives a private directive from the Association but begins questioning their motives.

* Firewall Breaches and Counter-Firewalls: Gojo attempts unauthorized teleportation to Nova. She creates the Shadow Thread Firewall, temporarily trapping him in a recursive hallway.

* Association Tracing Broadcast Zones: Multiple CurseTV nodes come under attack. Nova reroutes through Shadow Node Δ. Geto and Gojo publicly commit to the rebellion after a safehouse standoff.

* CurseTV Studios Go Underground: The Studio becomes a mobile relay unit, constantly shifting between Echo Zones to avoid exorcist tracking. Curse Points are introduced to crowdsource rebellion support.