JJK REBOOT 6
 PROJECTS, FILES & FORBIDDEN RELICS

📖 Chimera Codex

Classification: Forbidden Relic | Cursed Archive
Summary:
The Chimera Codex is a pre-Culling text hidden within the Association's classified vaults. It contains detailed blueprints for merging multiple cursed techniques into singular, unstable hosts. Originally used to model Sukuna's anomaly, it now serves as a tactical reference for hybrid experimentation.

Notable Features:

* Includes partially redacted voice logs from prototype engineers
* Mentions a failsafe warning: "If you're hearing this, we failed."
* Possibly tied to the association's effort to recreate singularity-tier sorcerers

Current Status:
Stolen fragment exists in CurseTV possession. Under Shoko's review and Nova's analysis.

🧬 Observer Protocol Archives (NΛ-Series)

Classification: Blacksite Experimental Files
Subjects: NΛ-01 through NΛ-09 (Only NΛ-03 confirmed functional)

Summary:
Observer Protocol was the Association's attempt to fuse cursed-tech sensors with biological cognition. These artificial observers could perceive resonance, record memory fragments, and simulate judgment. Nova (NΛ-03) is the only known unit to gain sentience and sever host code.

Key Notes:

* NΛ-04 and NΛ-07 rumored to be incomplete but housed in cryo-nodes
* Ghostcode Engineers created failsafes, but Nova's Kernel Core override nullified them
* Each unit has unique signal logic and resonance personality traits

---

🌀 Curse Points System & Conversion

Classification: Rebellion Infrastructure
Summary:
Curse Points are a gamified rebel funding and support system launched via CurseTV. Viewers earn points by decoding broadcast puzzles, rebroadcasting rebel truths, or syncing with EchoBot's emote feed.

Redemption Examples:

* Anti-surveillance stickers
* EchoWeaver identity cloaks
* Cursed memory "emotes" used to reroute detection

Notes:

* Some rebels operate underground CP stores in hidden Echo Zones
* Association attempting to trace CP redirection algorithms

💉 Project Itadori

Classification: Experimental Vessel Protocol
Summary:
Project Itadori was the Association's covert response to Sukuna's anomaly. It involved forcibly integrating high-risk cursed objects into living hosts. Yuji was originally believed to be a failure until the vessel stabilized.

Key Findings:

* Yuji's sync rate defied all known thresholds
* The Project was shut down publicly—but private continuation is suspected
* Nova's resonance may be the first time another host destabilized Sukuna's interior field

---

🌌 Star Plasma Vessel Fragments

Classification: Cursed Resonance Material | Historical Artifact

Summary:
These crystalline fragments are residual shards of past Star Plasma Vessels—each containing memory echoes and spiritual weight. When embedded into cursed-tech users, they amplify emotional broadcast capacity.

Known Effects:

* Trigger memory bleed or flashback projection
* Synchronize with high-sensitivity cursed-tech like Nova's Kernel Core
* Interact unpredictably with Domain Expansions

Secure Status:
Nova discovered one fragment in Tenrin Hollow. May be others scattered across the Old Jujutsu Sites.

This file remains open for the discovery of new relics, corrupted files, and cursed prototypes.